

CWEN Mentoring Breakfast

CWEN is pleased to announce the 2st Annual Mentoring Breakfasts for Junior Economists to be held at the 2017 CEAs at Nova Scotia's St Francis Xavier University.

The breakfast is modeled after the highly successful CSWEP mentoring program as an informal meet and greet event where senior women economists will be on hand to provide mentoring and networking opportunities. Junior economists will be able to speak with the senior economists on a variety of topics, such as publishing, teaching, grant writing, networking, job search, career paths, and the tenure process.

For space reasons, participation will be restricted. We welcome participation by those who obtained their PhDs in 2011-2017. We will also consider individuals who expect to obtain their PhD at a later date but who have already secured a position for the next academic year.
